Secure Net Lease, as the exclusive listing broker and marketing advisor, is pleased to present 9063 Research Blvd, a 7-tenant, 16,400 SF strip center positioned along Research Blvd just west of Burnet Rd. The property sits just south of The Domain (Austin's second Central Business District) and within the broader North Burnet/Domain submarket, which is one of the highest-growth urban districts in Texas. 9063 Research Blvd is poised to benefit from major public and private investment in the area. Burnet Rd is slated for reconstruction and widening under the Burnet Road Mobility Program, improving access and multimodal transportation. The City of Austin and CapMetro are advancing light-rail and transit infrastructure, including new stops, mobility hubs, and pedestrian improvements surrounding Q2 Stadium and connecting into the surrounding area.

The offering provides an investor with immediate in-place cash flow and meaningful optionality ahead of the next redevelopment cycle. The property represents a compelling covered land play with assemblage in one of Austin's most land-constrained growth submarkets.

Austin, Texas, dubbed "Silicon Hills," has experienced rapid growth due to its thriving tech industry, vibrant cultural scene, and high quality of life.

The city is home to the University of Texas at Austin, a major research institution that contributes to its youthful energy and innovation. Austin's population continues to rise, with an estimated 986,928 residents in 2024, while the broader metro area has grown to around 2.55 million people. This rapid expansion has brought both opportunities and challenges, particularly in terms of housing affordability and infrastructure.

The city's median household income has grown accordingly, reaching approximately $103,717 in 2024.

Austin is also famous for its vibrant lifestyle and entertainment options. The city is known as the "Live Music Capital of the World," hosting major festivals like South by Southwest (SXSW) and Austin City Limits (ACL). Its food scene is just as lively, featuring everything from top-rated barbecue joints to trendy food trucks. Outdoor enthusiasts appreciate Austin's many parks, trails, and lakes, including the popular Barton Springs Pool and Lady Bird Lake, which offer opportunities for swimming, kayaking, and hiking. Despite the challenges of traffic congestion and rising costs, Austin remains one of the most desirable places to live in the U.S., attracting people with its mix of economic opportunities, cultural vibrancy, and outdoor recreation.

UT moves to rezone hundreds of acres in Northwest Austin for future medical center

BEN THOMPSON FEBRUARY 25, 2026 (COMMUNITY IMPACT)

Nearly 400 acres of The University of Texas at Austin's land is set to be rezoned for research and science uses, a move that could help clear the way for the future UT Medical Center's development in Northwest Austin.

The big picture

First announced in 2023, the new medical center including a UT hospital and MD Anderson Cancer Center is envisioned as a multibillion-dollar addition to UT's academic health system.

The project was originally planned for the former Frank Erwin Center site on 19 acres of UT Austin's downtown campus off I-35. However, UT system officials stated last fall that the medical complex could instead be built in Northwest Austin, where the university already owns hundreds of acres of land, including its J.J. Pickle Research Campus.

That shift was confirmed this month by Kevin Eltife, UT System board of regents chair, who said the northern location would accommodate the medical center's future expansion and leave the downtown site available for other uses. The medical center is set to open in 2030.

"The result of this partnership will allow Texans to harness both institutions' mission of patient care, education, innovation, and research to create a once-in-a-generation opportunity to define the future [of] health care of Texas," Eltife said Feb. 18.

UT unveils location for new medical campus, rejecting former Frank Erwin Center site

JOHANN CASTRO, FEBRUARY 18, 2026 (KVUE)

The facility will now be built on land owned by the university west of the J.J. Pickle Research Campus in North Austin.

AUSTIN, Texas — University of Texas at Austin leaders are moving forward with a plan to build a future academic medical campus in North Austin but not in the original planned location.

On Wednesday, the university announced that the proposed University of Texas Medical Center will be located on land owned by the university land west of the J.J. Pickle Research Campus in North Austin.

In 2023, leaders announced plans to build the facility on what used to be the site of the Frank Erwin Center in Downtown Austin, which closed in May 2022. UT System's Board of Regents also approved an item paving the way for Dell Medical School's expansion.

The project includes an MD Anderson Cancer Center location and a medical tower. UT Board of Regents President Kevin Eltife called it one of the biggest projects of this generation.

Back in November, Eltife announced the university may be looking at a larger undeveloped site north of campus, near The Domain.

"As our two institutions continue to work collaboratively, over the last year it became apparent that the proposed Erwin Center location would not be as conducive to the fully integrated, patient-centered approach that was being envisioned and there would be limits to future growth on that site," Eltife said at Wednesday's Board of Regents meeting.

Growth continues around Q2 Stadium as fans kick off first home game of the season

MADISON MYERS, FEBRUARY 21, 2026 (KXAN)

Rezoning changes and sidewalk improvements signal continued development around the stadium.

AUSTIN (KXAN) — All eyes are on Q2 Stadium as fans prepare to pack the stands for the first home game of the season.

But while the action on the field is just getting started, the transformation off the field has been years in the making.

Since the stadium opened in 2021, the surrounding area has continued to grow and evolve — including new development plans and infrastructure improvements.

Mark Harris, owner of Turnstile Coffee, Beer and Spirits, says the game-day atmosphere brings welcome traffic to local businesses.

“There’s always tons of excitement around it. I mean, that brings a lot of people to this area, which is great.”

Just this month, Austin City Council members approved the rezoning of nearly seven acres near the stadium within the North Burnet and Gateway zone.

According to the city’s rezoning review sheet, the change will allow for high-density residential housing, high-rise office space and entertainment complexes — signs of continued growth around the stadium.

But for some local businesses, the transition hasn’t been without challenges.

“Unfortunately, some of our colleagues have gone out of business in the last 4 or 5 years. So, you know, when I moved in here, there were four other breweries around here that are no longer here,” said Harris.

Business owners say that’s one reason they’re welcoming the additional development — hoping it brings more consistent foot traffic year-round.

“It hasn’t been as quick to come as we thought it was going to be when the stadium came around. I know that the economy has had some impact on a lot of that, but, we welcome it. We’re looking for more growth,” said Harris.

The city is also working to improve access to the area. In December, leaders approved a $22 million contract to build new sidewalks along Burnet Road, aimed at making it easier for fans to walk to and from the stadium.

In the meantime, local business owners say they’ll continue to embrace the area’s growth while cheering on the team.

TEXAS DISCLAIMER

9063 RESEARCH BLVD AUSTIN, TX

Approved by the Texas Real Estate Commission for Voluntary Use

Texas law requires all real estate licensees to give the following information about brokerage services to prospective buyers, tenants, sellers and landlords.

Information about brokerage services

Before working with a real estate broker, you should know that the duties of a broker depend on whom the broker represents. If you are a prospective seller or landlord (owner) or a prospective buyer or tenant (buyer), you should know that the broker who lists the property for sale or lease is the owner's agent. A broker who acts as a subagent represents the owner in cooperation with the listing broker. A broker who acts as a buyer's agent represents the buyer. A broker may act as an intermediary between the parties if the parties' consent in writing. A broker can assist you in locating a property, preparing a contract or lease, or obtaining financing without representing you. A broker is obligated by law to treat you honestly.

If the broker represents the owner

The broker becomes the owner's agent by entering into an agreement with the owner, usually through a written – listing agreement, or by agreeing to act as a subagent by accepting an offer of subagency from the listing broker. A subagent may work in a different real estate office. A listing broker or subagent can assist the buyer but does not represent the buyer and must place the interests of the owner first. The buyer should not tell the owner's agent anything the buyer would not want the owner to know because an owner's agent must disclose to the owner any material information the owner knows.

If the broker represents the buyer

The broker becomes the buyer's agent by entering into an agreement to represent the buyer, usually through a written buyer representation agreement. A buyer's agent can assist the owner but does not represent the owner and must place the interests of the buyer first. The owner should not tell a buyer's agent anything the owner would not want the buyer to know because a buyer's agent must disclose to the buyer any material information known to the agent.

If the broker acts as an intermediary

A broker may act as an intermediary between the parties if the broker complies with The Texas Real Estate License Act. The broker must obtain the written consent of each party to the transaction to act as an intermediary. The written consent must state who will pay the broker and, in conspicuous bold or underlined print, set forth the broker's obligations as an intermediary. The broker is required to treat each party honestly and fairly and to comply with The Texas Real Estate License Act. A broker who acts as an intermediary in a transaction:

- Shall treat all parties honestly
- May not disclose that the owner will accept a price less than the asking price
- Submitted in a written offer unless authorized in writing to do so by the owner;
- May not disclose that the buyer will pay a price greater than the price submitted in a written offer unless authorized in writing to do so by the buyer; and
- May not disclose any confidential information or any information that a part specifically instructs the broker in writing not to disclose unless authorized in writing to disclose the information or required to do so by The Texas Real Estate License Act or a court order or if the information materially relates to the condition of the property.

With the parties' consent, a broker acting as an intermediary between the parties may appoint a person who is licensed under The Texas Real Estate License Act and associated with the broker to communicate with and carry out instructions of one party and another person who is licensed under that Act and associated with the broker to communicate with and carry out instructions.
